A conference for young researchers on biomass &
energy efficiency

26 - 28 February 2014

We are looking forward
to your contributions!

See you in WELS, AUSTRIA!

- Young researchers and young professionals are invited to submit contributions at: www.wsed.at/call
- Linked to the main topics of the WSED14 conference, WSED next will focus on biomass and energy efficiency in buildings.
- Deadline for submissions is 10 October 2013.
- A high-level scientific committee will select papers for oral or poster presentation.
- The organisers will cover the costs for accommodation, meals, participation and local transport for up to 60 selected participants for 3 conference days (arrival: 25 February, departure: 28 February).
- Submissions are invited from any scientific field (e.g. technology & engineering, economic and social sciences, law, arts, etc.) and must be in English only.
- The best contributions will be honoured with "Young Researchers Awards" for biomass and for energy efficiency. The researcher(s) and the respective institute will each receive 1,000 Euro as prize money.
- With more than 800 participants from over 50 countries every year, the World Sustainable Energy Days are one of the largest annual conferences on sustainable energy in Europe.
